Shooting Accident

Occurs at Claresholm

Just after we had gone to press last Thursday afternoon we learned of the accidental shooting of Ray, the six year old son of V. A. Porter, which had occurred late that day. It appears that Ray was out with Harold Chamberlin picking flowers near Dr. Tupper's residence when he was struck violently with a stray bullet in the temple. He was carried to Dr. Tupper's residence by Harold Chamberlin. While the bullet has not yet been located, and he has at times been in a serious state it is thought that now the danger point is past, and unless complication sets in, recovery is almost certain.

The blame for the shooting is laid on no one, as neither of the boys had a gun with them and they were unable to tell from which direction the bullet came although it is thought that it was a bullet fired by one of two of the local boys who were out in that direction, shooting popguns. In the past a number of the local boys who are still too young according to law to handle a gun, have been picking of this favorite past time. This accident will probably have a tendency for the close watch kept on the children and fire arms will only be found in the hands of those who are eligible to carry them.

EGGS AND THE WAR

A news letter with the foregoing title written by Prof. J. C. Graham of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, has been sent to the poultry keepers of that state. The following extracts from it are important to poultry keepers in Canada as well as all over the United States:

"Poultry keepers have a habit of disposing of all the hens and pullets they can possibly whenever feed gets much beyond the normal price and conditions are such this year that we believe it will pay to keep all females that have a semblance of good laying qualities, irrespective of the cost of feed. I don't mean that they are extremely old hens or worthless pullets should be retained. It is well known that England depends largely upon continental Europe and some of her colonies for her egg supply, and as the poultry business is ruined in Belgium and large portions of France, Germany, Austria and Russia, and the price of eggs in Holland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden is beyond the reach of ordinary people, her egg supply will be cut very short, in fact almost entirely. Europe will need this respect. This is to be greatly deplored, as large quantities of eggs will be needed for hospitals and convalescent soldiers. The importation of eggs in the month of December, 1913 amounted to 1,241,292 dozens, or more than in the entire fiscal year which ended in June 1913. This shows that foreign countries are their eyes on this country as a place for their surplus egg supply, especially during the winter months. The fact that shipping has been more or less demoralized and these importations cut off, leads us to believe that the price of eggs will be very high not only the coming winter, but two or three years to come, because it will take considerable time for the countries to get their poultry work back to normal conditions. Furthermore, it will be greatly to our advantage, as well as to that of consumers here, to habituate the public to the use of our products rather than those of foreign countries."

"We have it from good authority that the poultrymen of Canada are being urged in the same way to the utmost to meet the demands that will be made upon them by the Mother Country for this important product. Why should not the poultry keepers of this country take advantage of this crisis, and not only help to make up the deficit in European markets and decrease the high cost of living at home, as well, but add materially to their own profit? This can be done by carefully observing the following:

"Keep over this year for layers all hens and pullets that will help to fill the egg basket. Market as soon as in condition all worthless females and undesirable males. Plan to raise a good supply of chickens next spring from the very best stock on hand. Because feed is high do not think for a moment that good results can be obtained from the underfeeding. Feed poultry well on good wholesome feed and see that there is no waste. Our common grains are the best feed for poultry. If mangels, beets, turnips and the like can be purchased at reasonable prices, they will not only decrease the grain bill but add materially to the health of the fowls."

ALBERTA ESTRAY LAW

The Alberta Estray Law prescribes that the party who takes up an estray animal must immediately notify the brand reader nearest to his place to come out and examine the animal and take a copy of the brand if any on the animal. Then an advertisement must be inserted in the nearest local paper and also in the Alberta (Gazette) and mail the law is complied with the goods of an estray cannot collect any fee for his trouble or reward. Prompt action must be taken, the law being very strict in this matter. The brand reader is entitled to a fee of two dollars for each animal they examine and mileage to the extent of the pen mile for the first ten miles. The cost of advertisement, the reading of the brand is a charge against an estray animal and must be paid when the animal is claimed. The party holding the animal is responsible for all charges until it is sold or redeemed by the owner. No charges for feed allowed between the 15th day of April and the 15th day of November. From November 15th to April 15th, a fee of five cents per head per day is allowed for horses and cattle during the day on which the notice is mailed to the owner of the estray.

HARVEY---BROWN

A very quiet wedding was solemnized at the Presbyterian manse, Monday afternoon, when William Harvey and Miss Sarah Ethel Brown were united in marriage by Rev. Wm. McNeil, Mr. and Mrs. Brown will reside on their farm south east of Enniskillen. The young couple have the hearty congratulations of their many friends in this vicinity.

ARE YOU A KNOCKER?

"When the Creator had made all the good things, there was still some dirt work to do, so He made the beasts and reptiles and poisonous insects, and when He had finished He had still some scraps that were too bad to put into the Battle Ship, the Hydra, the Scorpion and Skunk, so He put all these together, covered it with spines, wrapped it with poison, and called it a knocker."

"This product was so fearful to contemplate that He had to make something to conquer it, so He took a sunbeam and put it in the heart of a child, the brain of a man, wrapped these in civie pride, covered them in intellect, gave it a mask of velvet and a grasp of steel, and called it a booster: made him a lover of fields and flowers and many sports, a believer in equality and justice, and ever since these two were mortal man has had the privilege of choosing his associates."

Entertains on Sixth Birthday

Miss Dorothy Godley entertained about a dozen of her young friends Saturday afternoon. The occasion being her sixth birthday. Games were indulged in and a dainty lunch, in which the proverbial birthday cake, decorated with six candles took a prominent part, was spread on tables beautifully decorated with white. The young guests all departed wishing Miss Dorothy to have many such happy birthdays.

WALK UPON THE ROAD

Because our lives are cowardly and shy,
Because we do not care to take or give
Because we scowl and pass each other by
We do not live; we do not dare to live.

We dive, each man, into his secret house,
And bolt the door, and listen in affright.
Each timid man beside a timid spouse,
With timid children huddled out of sight.

Kissing in secret, fighting secretly;
We crawl and hide like vermin in a hole,
Under the bravery of sun and sky
We flash our meanness of face and soul.

Let us go out and walk upon the road,
And quit forever more the brick-battled den,
The lock and key, the hidden, shy abode
That separates us from our fellowmen.

And by contagion of the sun we may
Catch at a spark from that primeval fire,
And learn that we are better than our clay,
And equal to the peaks of our desire.

—James Stephens.

The Farmers and the Red Cross Society

We publish today an appeal on behalf of the Red Cross Society, by Dr. James W. Robertson.

Dr. Robertson is still best known to the farmers of Canada as Professor Robertson. He began his official public service at the Ontario Agricultural College nearly thirty years ago. Twenty-five years ago he went to Ottawa as Dairy Commissioner for the Dominion. The Dairy Service of the Department of Agriculture soon became known and trusted throughout Canada. From Prince Edward Island to Alberta, farmers profited by the Illustration Dairy Stations and Travelling Instructors. The output of cheese and butter in Canada added to the reputation of its rural workers.

Other public services of continuing and growing value were inaugurated, while Professor Robertson was Commissioner of Agriculture. Among them were the Live Stock Branch, the Cold Storage Service, the Seed Grain Competitions, Train Shipments of fruit to the United Kingdom, and extension of markets.

Besides these were the Manual Training Movement, the School Gardens, Household Sciences, and the Canadian Rural Settlement. In more recent years, Dr. Robertson was Chairman of the Royal Commission on Industrial Training and ## Technical Education. Farmers in all provinces are familiar with the Survey of Farms by the Commission of Conservation and the Illustration Firms of its Committee on Lands, of which he is Chairman.

In these and many other ways, Dr. Robertson has given the farmers of Canada the best that was in him. He says he is their debtor, for many opportunities, for much kindness and for warm appreciations. But they are his debtors too. And he now reminds them of that for the first time in order to establish his right and privilege to appeal to them for this worthy cause.

DOCTORS AND EDITORS

A youngster, whose father was editor of a small town daily, was asked to write a composition on Professional Men.

"When an editor makes a mistake there is a lawsuit and scolding and a big fine; but when a doctor makes one there is a funeral, cut flowers and perfect silence. A doctor can use a good yard long without him or nobody knowing what it means; but if the editor uses one he has to spell it. If the doctor goes to see another man's wife he charges for the visit, but if the editor goes, he gets a charge of buckshot. When the doctor gets drunk it is a case of being overcome by the heat and if he dies it is from heart trouble; when the editor gets drunk it is a case of too much booze, and if he dies it's the j.m.s. Any old college can make a doctor; an editor has to be born."

Lutheran Ministers Hold

Convention at Granum

The ministers of the E. Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio, and other States convened from the 13th to the 15th inst., at the parsonage of the Rev. Carl C. Janz at Granum. The object of this convention was to discuss the welfare of the missionary work of said Synod in Southern Alberta. For this session sessions were held both in the morning and afternoon. The various missionaries related their experiences, and a marked progress in the work was noted, especially in the small districts, while the work of the pastors in the city was hampered considerably by the prevalent condition of no employment. Although a number had appeared at the conference with heavy hearts, because of the reverses with which they had met since the last convention, nevertheless, all departed refreshed and imbued with new courage to wage undilutely the war of the Lord. The next convention will be held at Calgary during the month of September.

SUPPORT THE LOCAL PAPER

The local paper is entitled to every credit worth of printing that can be given it by the people and local institutions. It is one place in town where every business man, sooner or later, has to come for some favor or other that will mean dollars to his business in satisfaction to his social or home life. The local paper is continually giving publicity to matters that will directly benefit your business and it therefore has a right to expect local patronage, even though it differs with you on many things. The local paper is everybody's friend and as such is placed in a position where it can rightfully ask every bit of support that the people of the community can give it. If you send a job of printing out of town, you are not only giving a principle which amounts to something more than a mere matter of dollars or cents, everlasting loss to the community.

BRITISH "FAIR PLAY"

Much as we read about the war, there's one idea we haven't come across any place. In stringing up the names and their characteristics, some one goes off into generalities on militarism and culture. The Germans and British are supposed to be all alike except for the philosophy of Tietseke, the politics of Tietseke, the better of Schilde and some more frothy things. The main fact to prove it all is the way the Germans deal with their enemies. The Germans don't seem to know how to play the game. This is the practical side of it, and it seems to us, the philosophic side as well. The Germans don't know how to play games.

"Fair play" is surely a British phrase. "If culture" is made in Germany. "Fair play" is made in Britain. There is just the one brand, British fair play. Outdoor games are becoming popular in Europe, but their home is in the British Isles. A Russian gentleman would consider it more dignified to play kick-the-stick with boys on the street than to get into fannels and chase a ball around a field. Germans have another thing like the same idea. An outdoor game, like tango dancing, may be alright while a fashionable fad. As a regular pastime for grown up men of education it is a bit silly. Pick an English gentleman, look up his record in who's who, and along with his titles and clubs, you'll find something like the outdoor games in plays. If he cannot play, he at least follows the play of others. And what are games but an imitation of warfare? Take our gentle game of hockey and you see opposing armies at work. From boxing to lawn tennis, the sport is simply in the fight. The British learn to fight, in battles and in business, by playing it all the time in games or sports. In Germany probably they have no game for a fellow which means the game as "good sports."

The tragedies of Belgium show up some of the Germans to be as "poor sports." The sporting page of our papers is our real military gazette. Apart from theories and systems, the British army and the British empire give a good deal of its power and discipline from the simple process of playing games. The Germans, with their fine theories and concepts, go astray in fighting others and in ruling others because they do not have the knack and tact to "play the game."

Rev. C. A. Myers Speaks Sunday School Problems

Instead of the regular young peoples meeting at the Presbyterian church last evening, Rev. C. A. Myers, of Toronto, gave a very interesting lecture dealing with the young people in the Sunday School and Young People's Societies. The time was mostly spent on Sunday school work, organizing the teachers and seeing to it that the young people, beginning with the infancy, primary and junior and on up to the teen age department. The lecture was illustrated by lantern slides, although the light was poor, yet the pictures helped considerably to make the lecture more interesting. The church was very well filled and the lecture was especially helpful to those interested in this work.

No Regular Team For Claresholm This Year

At the base ball meeting which was scheduled to be held at the council chamber last Monday evening, only two or three ball enthusiasts turned out, so that nothing definite towards organizing the team was done. It is likely there will be no regular team organized, but there are a number of good players in town and no doubt on a very short notice Claresholm can get a team together that will hold their own in the game, so teams looking for games need not pass Claresholm by, because she has no regular team, but just give us notice of a week or so.

THE WIFE

Is man the child of sorrow and do afflictions and distress pour their bitterness into his cup? How are his trials alleviated, his sighs dispelled, his sorrows comforted, his thoughts dispirited by a wife of cheerful smiles and love. Is he overwhelmed by disappointment and mortified by reproaches? There is one who can help her eyes even from his forehead and who, like her Father in heaven, can forgive and love "without imbruing." And when he is silenced by the sulldens and deception of the world—when he becomes dissatisfied with himself and all around him, her pleasant smile, her unselfish devotion, her serene simplicity, restore him to himself and spend serenity and sweetness over him.

Some men have a lot of good in them, but it would take an angel to locate it.

It is hard to get a hungry man as much interested in religion as he is in ham and eggs.

One or two brave men have already appeared on the streets in bright and shiny new summer straw hats.

A vigorous, healthy man has really only one right in the world, only one thing to demand, and that is a chance to work.

A few years ago when she brushed her knees—when you used to go to school with her, she used to let you rub her back. Now she'd call the police if you would help her dress a sprained ankle.

By the time a man is married his character is formed, and he changes very little. His mother has made him, and no matter how hard she tries, there is very little that his wife can do towards altering him.

Life is just one damned thing after another. When you were a boy, mother used to spank you because of the rent in your clothes. Now the landlord makes a fuss if you haven't got the rent in your clothes.

When they are engaged she puts perfume on the lapel of his coat and tells him how nice it makes him smell. But if he comes home with some perfume on the lapel of his coat after they are married she wants a divorce.

A professor has discovered among some ancient ruins what is supposed to be the eleventh commandment. The text is as follows: Enas of pithyrop, put not seden repus upon a deer ten fells, etc. The commandment is easily translated by beginning at the end of the sentence and reading backward.

We are all hoping for a bumper crop this year, with no hail or frost.

harm any locality, but we can't let anybody hang on. The one thing to do is to fill a good load of cows, raise some good calves and feed some pigs. Those are some money-makers whether or not the crops are frozen or ruined.

The very reputation of always trying to improve oneself in every particular, of being in about second place, will attract the attention of everybody that knows, and you will get many a recommendation for promotion which never comes to those who have no special effort to climb upward.

This happened only the other night. The daughter of a well known mechanic made a real hit with a certain young man, who was invited to the house. Her father walked into the room where his daughter and her beau are courting, and wanted to know where the Sam Hill the daughter put his safety razor after she got through using it. The young man has left town.—Claresholm Herald.

The following is from an exchange. There was an old man and he had a wooden leg, he had no money and he wouldn't beg; he had a piece of pipe and a twelve inch board. Says he to himself, "I'll make me a Ford." A gallon of gas and a quart of oil, a piece of barbed wire to make a car, four big spools and an old milk can, he hammered together and the darn thing ran.

Arbour Day. Observation Should be General

Arbour Day is not observed in Canada to the extent which its importance warrants.

The people of Canada must ever keep in mind their dependence upon her forests. With large areas suitable only for forestry purposes, it is essential that the value of trees and their protection should be thoroughly impressed upon Canadians.

While Arbour Day is observed in the rural schools, and in some city schools, its recognition by the general public is not as general as it should be.

In the province of Alberta, Arbour Day is a public holiday. It is very generally observed by the towns and school districts for the planting of trees and flowers. More general public recognition should be given to Arbour Day, and the planting and protection of shade trees, the preparation of flower and vegetable gardens, and the thorough cleaning up of homes and surroundings should be advocated in special duties for the day. Alberta is in need of a general every encouragement should be given to their increase.

Arbour Day has its justifications in the value of trees, from whatever point of view they may be considered. Nothing contributes so much to make the world a pleasant place to live in as trees. The true home feeling is not satisfied without the presence of the trees, with their shelter and shade, their beauty of form and bud and blossom and fruit, their varying shades with the passing of the seasons, and their foliage of color in the autumn days. They also afford a home and shelter for our feathered friends, the birds, during their annual visits to us.

There is nothing which will add beauty and value to a home or a schoolhouse more than the presence of trees; there is likewise nothing which adds more to the comfort of the pedestrian than shade trees on the roadside. The way may be long and dusty, but under the cool shade of the trees relief is found.

It is to be hoped, therefore, that the celebration of Arbour Day will become general; that the planting and care of trees and shrubs among school-grounds, homes, public squares and by roadsides may have the effect of developing a keener appreciation of the value and beauty of the trees, and that in this endeavor, the field of Arbour Day activities, greater in scope, may be created in the protection of our Canadian forests from the reckless destruction by fire and lumbermen to which they are thus exposed.

LAW OF GRAVITY VIOLATED.

Conditions Under Which Water Actually Flows Upward.

There are conditions under which water actually flows upward and rises above its source. If a glass tube be dipped into water the column inside will be above the level of the water surrounding surface. Moreover, if a tube of lead the diameter be substituted the column inside will be higher. The water creeps along the inside of the tube, owing to the adhesion, and forms a curved depression at the top.

An explanation is not difficult. It is proved mathematically that the diameter of a circle be diminished one-half the circumference is also reduced to that extent, while the area is one-fourth of its former value. The circumference of the column of water being reduced one-half, its contact with the glass, and hence the adhesive force, is also diminished to that extent, while the cross section, and hence the weight, is decreased to a fourth of what it was before. Therefore the second column can be twice the height of the first without exceeding the lifting power.

Remarkable as the underlying principles of this phenomenon undoubtedly are, nature made use of them long before man made his discovery. Every tree and flower adds its testimony. The core of a tree or plant, instead of being a single open channel, consists of a spongy substance containing many minute tunnels through which the sap and moisture collected by the roots flow upward in small streams, rising higher and higher in sheer defiance of the great law of gravity—St. Louis Republic.

SEA MINES IN WARFARE.

The Result When a Vessel Strikes One of These Deadly Engines.

To merchantmen, to the smaller and older warships—to everything that floats except the very highest and more recent products of the shipyard—the mine presents the danger of complete and almost instant annihilation. The rigidity of the ship is in itself an element of danger, for the water surrounding it is incompressible.

If the ship and frame could give way without rupture and permit the enormous expanding mass of exploding material the volume of the solid explosive to transmit their energy in such a way as simply to push the ship aside and then find a way to the surface, the damage might be slight.

But this cannot be. There is no such elasticity available. And the expansion is so nearly instantaneous that the ship and its contents are shattered. Therefore the structure must break, releasing the gases first into the interior and then by lines of least resistance finally up into the air.

This action is completely instantaneous. It blows off hull covers and deck plates, twists massive steel members into shapeless shreds, wrecks above and below, it transmits a prodigious shunt into a sinking mass of wreckage—a happy passenger—sunk into a submarine—carries mourning into a hundred homes. Such is the effect of mine—Sidney Graves (New Leslie).

Hard to Kill.

A distinguished entomologist writes: "When I was still new to collecting, in the south of France I discovered one day, to my great joy, a large female of Saturnia pryi hidden away in some bushes. The specimen was the first I had ever caught, and I decided, on account of its large body, to stuff it in quite unnecessary question; I have kept dozens since unscathed. The moth was first apparently killed by being forced into a cyanide bottle, where it was left about an hour. The specimen was then emptied and the cavity filled with cotton wool soaked in a saturated solution of mercuric chloride. The insect, dried and set, was discovered next day attempting to fly away from the setting board."

Her Alimony Explained.

Miss Corley kept a private school and one morning was interviewing a new pupil.

"What does your father do to earn his living?" the teacher asked the little girl.

"Please, m'am," was the prompt reply. "He doesn't live with us. My mother supports him."

"Well, then," asked the teacher, "how does your mother earn her living?"

"Why," replied the little girl in an earnest manner, "she gets paid for staying away from father."—London Standard.

Ten Stick Island.

In the Southwest Bay, in the New Territories group, there is a small wooded island of considerable height above sea level, and in the original grant made in 1841 it was included in the Crown grant. The story of its acquisition is a curious one. South of the island is a small bay, and it was for some time the property of the British. It was not until 1841 that it was discovered that it was in danger of being sold to a foreigner. The British government was then in a difficult position, and it was decided to sell the island to a foreigner. The sale was made, and the island was sold to a foreigner. The sale was made, and the island was sold to a foreigner.

Isn't a Leaf Always Broad?

"How is forest getting on at college?" asked the minister, who was being entertained at dinner.

"Splendid," said the round father, who then went on to tell of his son's various social, athletic and academic successes, and the minister said it was a fine thing to be college bred.

That evening little James, who had been an interested listener, said, "Papa, what did Mr. Brown mean by 'college bred'?"

"Oh, that," said papa, who had been looking over his son's bills. "Is a four year long!"—Ladies Home Journal.

Scotch of Danzig.

One of the largest Scottish colonies of the continent formerly existed at Danzig. In the last decade of the nineteenth century a number of Scotch knights journeyed to Danzig to help in the erection of the Teutonic order during the Lithuanian battles, and one of the city gates—now known as the Gate of the Knights—was built by them. The knights were the Danzigers, who were slain there—London Spectator.

BUTTER WRAPPERS

Must Be Printed or Branded According to New Dairy Act

AN Official of the Dominion Department of Agriculture visited Edmonton recently and stated that it was the intention of the department to enforce strictly the act regarding the branding of Dairy Butter which was passed last year. From now on anyone selling Dairy Butter in Blocks, Squares or Prints and wrapped in Parchment, must have "DAIRY BUTTER" clearly marked on the Package or be liable to a Fine.

It is better defined as Butter manufactured in a place where the Milk or Cream of less than fifty cows is manufactured into butter. The underlying principal is protection to the Consumer, the Honest Manufacturer, and the Honest Trader.

In passing we might state, to convince the Public of our facilities for printing Butter Wrappers, we

CANADIANS FOREIGN BUYERS

Canadians buy more goods outside their own country than the citizens of any other important nation in the world. Here is the average amount which each citizen of the following countries bought abroad in 1911, the latest year for which comparative statistics are available.

Canada	..... $70.24
Great Britain	..... 61.55
Argentina	..... 47.39
France	..... 39.30
Germany	..... 35.17
United States	..... 16.63
Austria	..... 12.61
Russia	..... 3.40

It seems incredible that every Canadian annually spends $70.24 for foreign goods while Russians only spend $3.40 each abroad. Canadians must cut down their foreign purchases and buy more goods produced in their own country. Face national bankruptcy.—Industrial Canada.

WHY BUY AT HOME?

The following reasons for purchasing at home were features in a campaign recently put on by Peterborough retailers and manufacturers to encourage Peterborough citizens to buy in their own town. What Peterborough has done can be followed to good advantage by practically every town and city in Canada.

Because our interests are here. Because the community that is good enough for us to live in is good enough for us to buy in. Because we believe in transacting business with our friends. Because we want to see the goods we are buying.

Because we want to get what we buy when we pay for it. Because some part of every dollar we spend at home stays at home, and helps work for the welfare of our home town.

Because the home man we buy from stands back of the goods, thus always giving value received.

Because the man we buy from pays his share of the taxes. Because the man we buy from helps to support our poor and needy, our schools, our churches, and our homes.

Because when luck, misfortune or bereavement comes, the man we buy from is here with his kindly expressions of greeting, his words of cheer, and it need be his pocketbook. Let us make Peterborough a good place in which to work and live.

"EVERYBODY'S DOING IT"

Pragging the Signs of the Times

"Begonia" observed the doc, "making love to a widow is a square thing to do. Before ye begin to know what the end will be and yit ye're scared that somethin'll happen. Ye make up your mind it's no use thyrin' an' thin ye discover ye're gone so far ye can't back out. It's full of disappointments an' hopes, an' in the end comes the greatest surprise or all win just what ye expected happens."

What mankind needs is more justice and less love. Justice and love are not comparable. They are not in the same category. Love is a function of the mind, of soul; justice is a characteristic of the actions and relations of man to man. To talk about substituting justice for love is like proposing to adjust the machinery of a mill so well that there would be no need of engines or power plant. The type of love we are needing is that which expresses itself in justice rather than in cheap, gushing sentimentality. The world is sick and tired of the "love," that sends toys to a sick child and opposes child labor laws, gives nickles to cripples and opposes workmen's compensation, or "pities" the poor and grinds labor below a living wage. Constructive service is indeed what the world sorely needs. But that is the kind of love for which Christianity stands.
